STATE TAX SURPRISES THE CITY OF MADISON

Forty Three Thousand Instead of Ten Thousand as Was First Stated.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Oct. 29.—The capital city of Wisconsin received a painful surprise when the city's portion of the state tax was calculated and found to be $43,000 instead of $10,000, the amount of a year ago. This increase is due in part to the larger amount which the state is collecting this year for educational purposes than was levied against the general property of the state last year and partly to payments due by the city on bonds issued from the state. The result will be an increase in the local tax rate, in spite of the efforts of Mayor Schubert, who promised that he would cause a reduction in the rate this year.

Talks with a number of the magnates indicated a general expectation among them that business of more than ordinary importance would be transacted at the meeting. The alleged threat of the American association to withdraw from the national organization unless some arrangement was made whereby it might secure more substantial benefits from the drafting regulations is one of the matters that has aroused considerable interest. While the national body is not inclined to take the threat seriously it is believed that the introduction of the subject at the meeting will call forth a spirited discussion that may eventually result in some modification of the national agreement that now binds together the various leagues.

To do this the fraternities are communicating with their influential alumni to do their utmost against the anti-fraternity movement, but other means adopted by the fraternities are more effective and promising. They are forming an organization here to correct certain evils that have brought them into disfavor as unwholesome and violent institutions. Already they have agreed not to pledge high school boys as prospective members and will soon limit the amount of money to be spent during the "rush" season, the time, during the first few weeks of the school year, when the fraternities are scrambling to secure the richest and otherwise most desirable members.

TAKES PREROGATIVE OF THE MAYOR AWAY FROM HIM

Little Chute, A Holland Colony, Has Interesting Matter Up For Supreme Court's Deliberation.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Appleton, Wis., Oct. 29.—Judge Ryan today handed down a decision which robs the president of Little Chute, a Holland village north of Appleton, of a prerogative which for more than a half century has been exercised by that municipality. Little Chute is one of the oldest settlements in this vicinity and is populated almost entirely by Hollanders. Twice each year these people hold a kermis and on these occasions they dance for one solid day and night. At these times the village president issues an order permitting the saloon keepers to keep their places of business open after the hour prescribed in an ordinance. At the last kermis one of the saloon men whose place is said to have been open all night, was complained of, James Van Camp being arrested and arraigned before Judge Ryan on a charge of violating a village ordinance. The attorney for the defense attacked the village ordinance as a whole, declaring all to be illegal and not binding. The court took the matter under advisement and today declared that the ordinance are legal, but the village president will no longer be privileged to grant special privileges to citizens or in any way, modify ordinances or suspend regular rules. This shears the head official of a right he has exercised in the little village of 1,500 people for more than fifty years. The case will be carried to the supreme court. It is said the question involves points of widespread interest, inasmuch as there are said to be a number of villages in Wisconsin where circumstances are similar to those in Little Chute.

THE VERY IDEA

Just think of it! If Alderman Jones' resolution is passed by the common council restricting the stopping places of the street cars; the oldtime custom of being able to get off anywhere in the block is done away with. The lady with her bundles and children instead of being landed in front of her door must go to the further corner crosswalk away from her home and then unload and tramp back home. The gentleman who decides to ride home to lunch must be sure to stand on the further crosswalk or be left to tramp it on Shanks' mare. Why this great revolution? Why this sudden energy on the part of the council to restrict the obnoxious motorman and his place of stopping? Perish the thoughts that it is because automobile-owners want to know where the cars are going to stop so they can speed up. Such a thing is not possible. Still the resolution was presented last evening and passed to the first and second reading. So that everyone may be sure to realize the enormity of the measure, the curtailing of the present rights of the people who patronize the car lines the ordinance is printed below. It has not yet passed the council and became a law, but it may.

An ordinance to regulate the running and operating of street cars over the streets of the city of Janesville.

Section 1.—No person, persons, firm or corporation running and operating street cars or interurban cars over any of the streets in the city of Janesville, shall stop any such car or cars for the purpose of taking on and letting off passengers on any of the streets of said city excepting on the opposite margin from which any such car or cars is being run on the streets crossing the street over which such cars are being run excepting at the corner of Franklin and Milwaukee streets.

Section 2.—Any person, persons, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall pay a penalty of not less than $10 or more than $100.

NO WORRY

The fact that the hurry among some of the speculative banks of New York has caused a financial flurry in Gotham apparently does not affect any other portion of the country. While the Chicago and Milwaukee banks have decided to protect the public against themselves in a possible panic by issuing clearing house certificates, Janesville bankers and businessmen feel no alarm. Wall street is no longer the United States and the few banks that suffered there were of the speculative calibre, which deserve no sympathy. Janesville is on a sound financial basis and has no cause to even notice the happenings in the eastern financial circles.

"DEAR" MEAT

So be it ordered. The common council is hungry. The city dais seek new food to satiate their palates. The feast of wisdom and wit which is their food two nights a month has paled on them. They want some of the juicy venison of the northern woods. They seek to enjoy a dinner from the haunch of a noble buck or a gentle doe or a mild-eyed fawn, or all three. In order to satisfy their craving they have decided to send two enterprising Minnards from their midst to capture, slay or steal—they cannot buy—a deer. It may be "dear" meat, but they must have it. So it is ordered.

START ON CRUISE TO NEW ORLEANS

TIM SULLIVAN OF KOSHKONONG AND GEO. W. HEVEY OF MILTON JUNCTION ON LONG WATER TRIP.

BUILT THEIR OWN BOAT

Carry Their Own Vehicle to Portage Dams and Rapids on the Way.

With the destination of New Orleans, Tim Sullivan of Koshkonong and Geo. W. Hevey of Milton Junction passed through Janesville today on their cruise to the mouth of the Mississippi in a craft built by themselves. They portaged from above the upper dam to below the lower dam near the Cotton mill this noon and after launching their craft they proceeded merrily on their way. They have mapped out their course with regard to where they will sleep nights almost to a day and a mile. Unless their calculations are greatly off they will have to portage about five more times after leaving here they have a frames work which fits the hull of their boat and carry a set of small iron wheels which they will use to transport their craft and let around dams or rapids that are too swift to run. They used this portage outfit in going through Janesville this morning. They carry the wheels in the boat and tow the framework in the rear of the craft, thus lightening their load. Their cooking outfit is complete, consisting of a camp's iron stove and a set of dishes and cooking utensils. The boat, which they made, is about twelve feet in length, and has a flat bottom. They also have a hunting boat which they tow. They have a gasoline engine installed for the propelling power and are able to make about ten miles an hour. The top of the craft is covered with canvas, thus giving them protection both in bad weather and at night when asleep. They value the outfit at about $250 and will try to realize as much as possible on it when they reach the end of their cruise. They left Koshkonong at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, camping last night above the city.

Upon arriving at their destination, which is New Orleans, they will dispose of their outfit with the possible exception of the gasoline engine, the propelling power in their boat and come home by train. This is the first time in years that any adventurers have passed through here with the intention of going as far down the Mississippi as the Crescent City. Their outfit is as complete as any traveler could wish for, because they will have to portage about five more times after leaving here they have a frames work which fits the hull of their boat and carry a set of small iron wheels which they will use to transport their craft and let around dams or rapids that are too swift to run. They used this portage outfit in going through Janesville this morning. They carry the wheels in the boat and tow the framework in the rear of the craft, thus lightening their load. Their cooking outfit is complete, consisting of a camp's iron stove and a set of dishes and cooking utensils. The boat, which they made, is about twelve feet in length, and has a flat bottom. They also have a hunting boat which they tow. They have a gasoline engine installed for the propelling power and are able to make about ten miles an hour. The top of the craft is covered with canvas, thus giving them protection both in bad weather and at night when asleep. They value the outfit at about $250 and will try to realize as much as possible on it when they reach the end of their cruise. They left Koshkonong at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, camping last night above the city.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT IN LEFT FIRST FINGER

While J. A. Austin of Lima was in the act of removing a loaded gun from the fence near his gate Sunday morning, the gun accidentally went off and the bullet passed through his first finger on the left hand. A hunter had placed his gun against the fence near the gate and when Mr. Austin went to remove it from the dangerous position in which it was left he was accidentally shot in the hand. He was going to open the gate, being already to go to church. The bone in the finger was shattered and as yet it is not known whether or not the finger will be amputated.

GOES TO IOWA FOR GAME ON SATURDAY

Wisconsin Football Team Plays the Hawkeyes on This Coming Week-End.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29.—Wisconsin's football eleven goes to Iowa City next Saturday to play the Iowa university team. Little scrimmage work will be given the Hawkeyes this week, in order to allow them to recover as much as possible from the hammering administered last Saturday here by the Illinois players. The defeat by Illinois has been a wholesome thing in some respects. It showed that the Wisconsin players are far from being in play when they appear to be in practice. Captain Messmer and Halfback Culver, strongest of the Badgers on paper, were dismal failures in the game. Messmer was a frost in playing and before the game was over the coaches shifted him back to tackle, where he played with credit last year. He will remain at tackle. He will also be relieved of the task of running the team and calling signals for plays. In the Illinois contest he used only six different plays and directed play after play in costly, disastrous succession. In just the strongest point of the Illinois defense. This week Coaches Hutchins and McCarthy are using Cunningham, the quarterback of last year, whom they thought to make a half-back this year, at quarterback, and the plucky little fellow is already giving promise of running the team with much more snap than Messmer was able to get into the work. Cunningham will also call the signals and do some of the passing in the long forward heave which was practically new and with good effect since the opening of the season, but which Messmer forgot for all of the first half of the Illinois game.

PICK THE FORT TO WIN STATE PENNANT

Madison High School Would Like to Play With Janesville This Season.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 29.—Fort Atkinson high school, whose football team has defeated Beloit, Janesville and Monroe, is in a fair way to win the high school football championship of Wisconsin this season. The game here with the Madison high school even next Saturday, for Madison is disgraced, disabled and not in the same class of former years nor equal to what Fort Atkinson has already demonstrated this season. Madison's game at Monroe left the capital city players badly battered and sore, which a week will not make up, and Fort Atkinson is understood to be in good physical condition, with extra coaching assistance and unlimited store of variations of the new stunts brought into the game by the revolution of the rules. This week Earl Driver, former varsity fullback, is trying to prepare Madison for the meeting with Fort Atkinson, but the boys do not take eagerly to the work after the hard game at Monroe, in which Madison was winner only by one lucky score, the game ending 15 to 12.

Faculty disengagement is laid on the gridiron game in the Madison high school, and several of the best players have been barred because of falling back in studies or otherwise displeasing instructors. This has become so bad that only one player of last year's strong eleven is eligible to play Saturday against Fort Atkinson. Madison is detours of arranging for a game with Janesville and La Crosse.

Cashier's checks may be used in the transaction of all local business, and outside bills may be paid as usual with Chicago exchange.

The Cashier's check of any local bank will be accepted by all the local banks for deposit or exchange, or new cashier's checks for any amount desired may be issued therefor.

It is said that 95 per cent of the business of the country is done by means of checks and drafts; it has become necessary temporarily to do 100 per cent of it by these means.

The people's money is as safe as it ever was, and their property is just as good, but, since it is absolutely impossible for the banks to get their money on deposit in the reserve cities, all the people, we believe, are best served by the step taken.

All deposits made after three o'clock P. M., October 29, 1907, until further notice, will be accepted only subject to the above agreement.

BEFORE THE FOOTLIGHTS.

There is a little romance connected with "The Flower of the Ranch," the big musical production which will be seen at the Elks' banquet, Nov. 2 at Myers theatre. Joseph E. Howard, the author and one of the stars of the play, spent some time in Arizona absorbing local color, and picking out types for his characters. The leading character, played by himself, was a young Englishman who had come to America as a reluctant man, and who tried cow-punching and found it to his liking. He saved his money, bought a ranch, and became a power in his community. He was able to entertain Howard very kindly, and divulged to him a story of the girl he was in love with, who had been found in a stage coach as a baby, after the other passengers had been killed by the overturning of the vehicle. This incident Howard took as the basis for his play, and the leading roles he drew from the Englishman and the girl, with the result that "The Flower of the Ranch" might be said to be taken from life. Howard is said to have written a play whose story resembles one of the delightful compositions of Bret Harte. He is also said in his mind to have caught the spirit of the wide Western plain, with the result that there is a quite characteristic dash and swing in the dozen or more musical numbers. The seat sale was very large but many good seats still remain unsold.

George M. Cohan's cleverest musical play, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," with Emma Carus and Klaw & Erlanger's splendid company and production will be seen at the Myers theatre Thursday, Oct. 31. "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" which has a real plot of interesting development and just enough catchy music to introduce some striking song hits, is wonderfully diversified in composition. It is one roar of laughs in the comedy scenes, thrilling in its melodramatic incidents, and heart stirring in some moments of real pathos. Emma Carus impresses the versatility of her art more strongly in her creation of the role of "Phila Mary" than anything she has undertaken. It is a great character as played by her, this plain, loyal-hearted domestic, and especially convincing in some of the pathetic scenes. Scott Welch as the ex-soldier, with his wonderful slang phrases, so expressively given, and with his heart-hearted ways, has made an immediate hit. The music principally containing two great songs by Emma Carus, "Mary is a Grand Old Name," and "So Long, Mary," and the title song, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," has added the popular fancy. The supporting cast includes Scott Welch, Frances Gordon, Chas. Greenville, Carolyn Lee, Elizabeth Purcell, John J. Clark, James H. Manning, Arthur V. Gibson, Edward Walter, Howard Stevens, Jas. A. Davett.

Origin of "Surname."

The term surname is supposed by some to be derived from the French surname, meaning "over name," because a person's family name was formerly written above instead of after the baptismal name.

GOLD IS BROUGHT OVER FROM EUROPE

CONDITION IN NEW YORK BANKS SETTLING DOWN TO NORMAL.

COPPER IS HIGH ABROAD

Certified Check System Works Well, and Financiers Think Trouble Is Just About Over.

New York, Oct. 20.—The principal events in the financial district Monday indicated that the worst of the crisis was over and that conditions were settling down to normal. There were no further bank suspensions and reports were favorable for the resumption of most of the banks which closed temporarily last week.

The engagement of $18,750,000 in gold from Europe for importation to New York was followed by the sensational announcement of sales of American copper abroad, which will further increase the tide of foreign money to this country to an aggregate of over $25,000,000. This, with the rapid rise of good securities on the stock exchange, in some cases as much as four and five per cent., which was naturally followed by slight reaction at the close, and the policy of the trust companies not to pay out currency for hoarding purposes, all contributed to strengthen the confidence in banking circles and among the public at large.

Bank Runs Nearly Over.

Thus upon banks practically ceased, partly because of recognition that they were unnecessary and unjustifiable and partly because of the policy adopted to pay large checks only in certified checks on depositary banks. This system of payment worked no apparent hardship and was the cause of very little protest. Small checks were paid promptly in currency, and larger amounts where it was demonstrated that currency was required for purposes other than hoarding.

It is still possible for a frightened depositor to transfer his account from one institution to another by depositing a check in the depositary for which he now has a preference, but he cannot withdraw large amounts in gold certificates to be locked in a safe deposit vault, as was the case last week.

Copper Trade Developing.

One of the sensational features of the day was the remarkable development in the copper trade. The United Metals Selling company reported a sharp advance in the price. Copper which they would have sold lately ten days ago at 12 1/2 cents a pound, commanded 13 1/2 to 13 3/4 cents a pound Monday. During the month of October the sales of this company had been between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 pounds of copper. The bulk of the sales have been for export, so that it is estimated that on the foreign demand there will be a return exceeding eight millions in gold. Sales by the copper interests have been proportionately large.

Much Gold to Be Imported.

The importation of $17,000,000 in gold, which comes largely from London, is having a moral effect almost as important as its direct financial effect. It means that credit can be sustained under the 25 per cent. reserve law to the amount of $68,000,000 and that the banks will be in position, to keep their cash reserves intact even against considerable demands. The fact that exchange rates return so quickly in favor of this country and that the gold was so readily obtained is accepted as an indication that the solvency of American financial institutions is not questioned in Europe. It is believed that much more gold will come this way within a short time.

The crisis has come at the most favorable moment for the importation of gold, because the movement of the crops has created heavy credit balances in favor of the United States which have not been discounted this year by the sale of finance bills. Another factor which facilitates the imports of gold is the large orders for American securities which reached the stock exchange Monday from London and various points on the continent. Foreign investors study carefully American properties, and they are evidently convinced that sound railway securities have touched a level which will make their purchase profitable.

One Failure in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 20.—Outside of the failure of the Bankers' Trust company, with deposits of $800,000, there was no real trouble here Monday. This bank was considered the weakest institution of its kind here and its failure neither caused much surprise and had no apparent effect upon the general situation. No other banks were affected. There were no runs on any of the banks here or in Kansas City, Kan., up to the close of business. The refusal of the banks to restrict payments of currency caused but little embarrassment.

Governor of Oklahoma Surprised.

Washington, Oct. 20.—"It was a surprise to me," said Gov. Frank of Oklahoma Monday night in speaking of the action of Acting Gov. Nelson, in issuing a proclamation declaring a legal holiday of six days and the closing of the banks of the territory as a result.

"I have been away from Oklahoma for several days," said the governor, "and therefore I am not as familiar with the financial situation there as I otherwise would be, but I am satisfied that the acting governor took the step on the advice of the bankers of the territory. The small country banks have large deposits in St. Louis and Kansas City, and the action of those banks in refusing to ship any currency to the country banks of Oklahoma makes it almost impossible for the latter to handle their business."

Big Reserves in Kansas Banks. Topeka, Kan., Oct. 20.—John Q. Royce, state bank commissioner, in a statement issued Monday night, said that practically every one of the 741 banks in Kansas is carrying 50 per cent. more reserve than the law requires. Many of the banks are carrying over 50 per cent. of their deposits in cash, while it is only required that they carry 20 per cent. It is not the bankers' fault that the reserves are so heavy, but there have been such great deposits made within the past few months that it has been impossible to loan the money as fast as it came in.

The reserve in the state banks of Kansas on August 22 was 41 per cent. of the total deposits, representing $64,000,000, being more than double that which the law requires these banks to have.

Reduce Meat Prices.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 20.—Omaha packing houses Monday reduced the prices of all kinds of meat ten per cent., and expect a still further reduction. Edward A. Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company expressed the belief that the prices of all commodities would be materially reduced, and that the present financial flurry would result in a general reduction of values, although he does not consider conditions serious.

STUDENTS HAZED AT ROLLA, MO.

Lively Class War in the State School of Mines.

Rolla, Mo., Oct. 20.—As a result of class rivalry of several weeks standing 20 sophomores of the State School of Mines were routed out of bed Sunday night, and, half clad, were led to trees on the campus of the school, where they remained until daylight, shivering in the nipping atmosphere. After they had been released by other sophomores, the entire sophomore class, rallied, captured 75 freshmen, bound their arms with ropes and chains and marched them around town accompanied by the school band. School Director Young was forced to declare a holiday Monday as the class rooms were vacant. The trouble arose over the refusal of the freshmen to obey the injunction of the sophomores to wear green caps with yellow buttons.

Monday night the freshmen came to terms by agreeing to wear the green caps, and their surrender was celebrated with a barbecue, which was attended by all the students.

STEAMER FINLAND DISABLED.

King Haakon later made the following appointments: J. G. Lovvland, premier and minister of foreign affairs; M. Brodoli, minister of justice; Capt. Dawes, minister of defense; Magnus Halvorsen, minister of finance; M. Berge, minister of public works.

Windor, Conn., Oct. 20.—Ten states were represented at the fifth biennial reunion of the Grant Family association at the First Congregational church here Monday afternoon. Gen. Accident on the Albatross.

Honolulu, Oct. 20.—James Collarey, second fireman of the United States steamer Albatross, in the service of the bureau of fisheries, was killed Monday afternoon by the explosion of a stop valve in the steam pipes connecting the ship's boilers. Rear Admiral Vory has appointed a board of inquiry to investigate the accident.

DOZEN ELECTIONS DUE NEXT TUESDAY

VARIOUS STATE AND CITY OFFICERS WILL BE CHOSEN.

QUEER NEW YORK FUSION

Republicans and Hearst Forces Divide the Ticket—Several Very Lively Fights for Mayoralties.

New York, Oct. 20.—There will be elections in 12 states Tuesday of next week.

In Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, Mississippi and Kentucky a governor and other state officers are to be chosen; in New Jersey, a governor only; in New York, two associate justices of the court of appeals; in Pennsylvania, a state treasurer, and in Nebraska, a railroad commissioner and two regents of the state university. In Ohio, Utah and California, municipal officers are to be selected, while in New York county a number of judges and a sheriff are to be voted for.

There is only one ticket—the Democratic—in Mississippi and the result, of course, is not doubtful. In Massachusetts there are ten tickets, five being divided among Democrats, who are engaged in a factional fight, with the state delegation to the National Democratic convention next year in perspective. The ballot law commission decided that Henry M. Whitney was the nominee for governor.

Fusion in Nebraska.

In Nebraska the Democrats and Populists fused on the officials to be voted for throughout the state.

In Maryland there will be a straight contest between the Democrats and the Republicans, only the two parties having made nominations for state officers. In addition to these a house of delegates and one-half of the state senate are to be elected. The next legislature will choose two United States senators—one to fill the unexpired term of the late Arthur P. Gorman, and the other to take the place of Senator Rayner.

The local elections, particularly in New York county, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Salt Lake and San Francisco, are of particular interest this year.

Queer Fusion in New York.

In New York county the Republican and the Independence league (Hearst) forces have fused on the county ticket, which is made up of a number of court justices and a sheriff. This gives unusual interest to the contest. Although the Republicans named the head of the ticket, M. Linn Bruce, for justice of the supreme court, the most important office, that of sheriff, went to the Independence league, whose nominee, Maximilian P. Hensen, has been William R. Hearst's campaign manager in several campaigns.

Opposed to Hensen on the Democratic ticket is Thomas P. Foley, Democratic leader of the Second assembly district, while James W. Gorard heads the Democratic ticket for justice of the supreme court.

Several City Contests.

In Cleveland, Congressman Theodore E. Burton is contesting the majority with Thomas L. Johnson, who is understood to be the representative of William J. Bryan in Ohio, and to endorse Bryan's views on the subject of public utilities.

HEAD OF PRISONS IN RUSSIA SLAIN

GEN. MAXIMOFFSKY IS SHOT DOWN BY A WOMAN.

HIS ASSASSIN CAUGHT

Admits She Is Emisary of Social Revolutionists—Was Prepared to Blow Up Secret Service Headquarters.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 20.—Gen. Maximoffsky, director of the department of prisons of the ministry of the interior, was shot and killed Monday by a woman.

The general was the highest responsible official connected with the Russian prisons and it is supposed that this was the reason he was selected for assassination by the terrorists.

The assassin fired seven shots point blank at the general, six of them taking effect. The wounded man was hastily taken to a hospital, but his condition was hopeless.

Emisary of Revolutionists.

The general's assassin, who was arrested immediately, unhesitatingly avowed herself to be an emissary of the northern flying section of the social revolutionists, who had been entrusted with the task of punishing Maximoffsky for the stern regime which he lately had introduced in the treatment of important political prisoners, whom he ordered to be treated like ordinary criminals.

Gen. Maximoffsky was sponsor for Gov. Borodulin of Akutai prison, Siberia, the father of Mlle. Spiridonova, and who recently was assassinated at Pskoff.

The introduction of soldiers into the prisons to preserve discipline was one of the most detested measures of Maximoffsky.

Prelude of Greater Act.

The assassination of Gen. Maximoffsky apparently was designed to be only a prelude to a greater act of terrorism—the destruction of the headquarters of the secret power, which has been the object of at least three terrorist plots of recent months.

When the slaughter was identified as Mlle. Ragozinskova, of Perm province, the daughter of a teacher in the imperial conservatory of music, was taken to the police station her agitated attempts to free her bound hands and reach toward her breast led to an investigation, and it was found that she carried inside her corset a case containing 13 pounds of a high explosive, a charge powerful enough to blow the entire buildings and its occupants to pieces.

Attempt to Kill Bekoff.

An attempt was made Sunday to assassinate Maximilian Bekoff, vice governor of the political prison of Vilna, whose chief, Col. Ivanoff, was killed in September. Several shots were fired at Bekoff but they struck a portfolio containing a steel plate, which he used as a shield.

Try to Blow Up a Train.

Kursk, Russia, Oct. 20.—An informal machine was exploded on the railroad track near here Monday in an attempt to wreck a train bound for Sebastopol. The track was torn up but the locomotive was very slightly damaged.

Arrested as Robber Chief.

Kiev, Russia, Oct. 20.—M. Khvost, an ex-social revolutionist member of the last Russian parliament, for whom the police have been searching since the dissolution of that body, was arrested here Monday charged with being the leader of a robber band and with organizing a revolt against the government.

Banker Killed by a Fall.

New York, Oct. 20.—Charles Rapallo Henderson, head of the banking firm of Henderson & Co., and an officer and director of several financial institutions, died Sunday, following a fall from a second-story window at his home in East Fifty-sixth street.

CHAPTER IV.

MOST people considered Georgiana Ellery a very beautiful girl. She was of a tall regal type, her stateliness of bearing and austerity of thought rather at odds with the soft womanliness of her countenance and the mellow sweetness of her voice. In spite of the seriousness with which she took herself and her "views," a seriousness which the light minded found a little wearing, her forceful personality held a charm which, with her beauty, gave her a very marked distinction.

Just now her benevolent glance moved about the table to take stock, as it were, of material. These seemingly commonplace Morningstars, she felt sure, could be reached through contact with the high thinking which it was her unrelenting aim to express. They already possessed that plain living which she had been taught to recognize, in theory at least, as a necessary concomitant to the former.

There was, first of all, the young man who sat opposite her, the farm hand. He certainly looked capable (in spite of his rough overalls and his name, which was Pete) of higher things. He had rather refined features. And his face was not unattractive. His brow rarely suggested the possibility of "thought power"—if imply she might weaken it.

The other men at the table, the indigent little farmer, with his keen, mouse-like face, and his stalwart son Abe, who nestled his father on the farm, were perhaps a bit further removed from the sphere of her influence. But in the freshness of her enthusiasm she was ready to try even upon them.

As for the women, there were possibilities, no doubt, in Mrs. Morningstar and decidedly so in that really pretty girl, Eunice. "The only one of them all who appeared to her utterly hopelessly unresponsive was Olive, the husky, heavy faced daughter of the house, whose dark, sullen countenance would have dampened an ardor even warmer than that of Miss Ellery.

Sent beside Georgiana was her cousin, Daisy Parks, whose duffy, puffy prettiness and irresponsible air of frivolity were, to tell the truth, a bit refreshing as over against Miss Ellery's aggressive superiority.

"Now," said Mr. Morningstar as, after a long silent gaze, he jerked his chair closer to the table and fell to, "just you set yourselves natural and take what you see."

He reached to the middle of the table and picked up a heavy platter of fried ham to help himself, unmindful of his guests. "We all do our own serving in the country. To be sure, if there's children we help them. But me, I always say if it's on the table I'll get it all right."

He laughed, with his mouth full of meat, and proceeded to stretch across the table for everything he wanted.

"Yes," Mrs. Morningstar added in her loud, hoarse tones, as she, too, reached for what she wanted, "but here when folks goes on company they must use themselves to do their own stretchin' and not expect to be waited on."

"How quaint!" exclaimed Miss Daisy Parks, who promptly reached for a slice of bread. "If you want that you must climb!" she quoted.

"Heaven, Daisy!" entreated Georgiana. "Don't be slangy! You promised me."

Daisy pressed her hand to her heart. "Stung again! How can I be so forgetful when I know how it bumps you, Georgie!" she said with mock remorsefulness.

"I hope," Mrs. Morningstar cried as she saw that, in spite of her urging, the boarders did not help themselves with the businesslike alacrity to be looked for in those who were paying for their food, "that you'll like my waffles. If I do say it myself, I kin cook when I know folks is comin'. To be sure, sometimes they come unexpected. Yes, just so sure as I say to pop or the girls. Now we'll warm up these here stumps that's left and eat 'em up once—then beware! Strangers is sure to come unexpected. Ain't, Ollie?"

Ollie colored with embarrassment at being appealed to and murmured an answer under her breath.

"Our creature comforts are of such minor importance," spoke Georgiana's musical voice as she lifted her hand some dark head and smiled from her high plane upon the Morningstars in a sort of benediction. "Material things absorb most of us too much—don't you think so?—leaving us too little time for the things that are really worth while in life."

Georgiana observed that the farm hand, Pete, looked impressed as she spoke in though a ray of light had penetrated his darkened mind. The rest of the family appeared unresponsive—unless perhaps that girl Eunice manifested some slight signs of receptivity—Georgiana could not be sure.

As for Miss Parks, she always hung upon Georgiana's words as though unwilling to miss one word which dropped from the lips of her oracular cousin, her admiration being commensurate with her inability to grasp Georgiana's deep meanings.

Mrs. Morningstar, however, disappointedly betrayed her obtuseness to truth by responding with an apology for her appearance. "I most always put mother frock on till the afternoon already, and so does Ollie still (Ollie she ain't got the time to, but we didn't get 'em on yet till you got here, so you see we lookin' some hard."

"It is yourself we wish to see, not your clothes, Mrs. Morningstar," Georgiana said encouragingly. "Externals are lost sight of when once one gets below the surface to the real person."

Mrs. Morningstar blushed and looked shocked, while her son Abe at her side colored all over his fat, sunburned neck.

"To be sure," the farmer's wife replied dubiously. "I wouldn't think much of that practice—lettin' folks see you undressed."

Georgiana, whose eyes were upon Pete, noticed that he smiled. She sank back in her chair, a shade of disappointment in her face. But she would not despair. The potential good in every human soul must eventually awaken to the right touch.

"Eunice," sharply ordered Mrs. Morningstar, her tone in addressing her foster child noticeably unlike that in which she spoke to any one else, "don't you see the fried smashed potatoes is all? Why don't you mind your self and fill the dish up once?"

The girl, without any response and with no change in the pensiveness of her countenance, rose to do as she was bid. "The delicacy and refinement of her face made one expect to see her embarrassed by such rude harshness in the presence of strangers. But she did not appear to be even conscious of it."

"Doc," Mrs. Morningstar addressed Pete as the girl brought back the potato dish from the stove, "don't you want some more smashed potatoes?"

Miss Parks paused in her dainty sipping of her milk (the Morningstar coffee and tea being impossible) and looked interested.

"Are you a doctor?" she inquired wonderingly as Pete without replying to the landlady helped himself to potatoes.

"There was an instant's silence, no one offering a reply at once."

"Och," said Mrs. Morningstar abruptly, with a confusion unaccountable to the two young ladies, "that's just a little he goes by around here still."

"Why?" pursued Miss Parks with frank curiosity.

"I don't know for why," she said hastily. "Won't you have some coffee? This here coffee cost 14 cents a pound, so I think it might nobel taste some like that there coffee we got a cup of the time we was to Philadelphia and took a piece at Wamamaker's place. But that there coffee was, now, wonderful good."

"The best I ever seen. And mind to what it cost yet! Ten cents a cup! I thought I'd drop when the colored gent'man sayed to pop we owed a quarter apiece—me and pop—just four little buckwheat cakes and a cup of coffee apiece! It aint me so I couldn't take no more enjoyment out of nothin' all the rest of the day. That give me all I wanted of grub to a big city! That—and a awful scenery we seen in broad street station—the form of two women comin' towards us—drunk! You mind of it, pop? I'd never witnessed such a scenery before as a woman drunk! That there was my first and my last trip to Philadelphia. A trip to Meckville's good enough for me after that. And such a hurryin' and a crowdin' as there is still in a big city! It seems as the folks there never think of the hereafter the way they hurry along the street. Will you have some coffee?"

"The fourteen cent coffee was doled out, obediently to the surprise of the rest of the family."

"Our cookin'," continued Mrs. Morningstar heartily, "ain't done by no hired girl. When we used to be at hotelin', nineteen years back, a travellin' man ask me once, 'Where's your cook?' 'Me and Lizzie's her,' I sayed. (Lizzie was my sister, deceased this while back already.) 'Us we do our own cookin', I told him. Well, I guess, anyhow!'"

RUSSIAN GIRL IS KIDNAPED

DAUGHTER OF FORMER OFFICIAL
STOLEN IN LONDON.Barbara Lapoukhin Writes That She Is Wounded, a Prisoner and Intends to Commit Suicide.

London, Oct. 28.—Barbara Lapoukhin, daughter of Alexander Lapoukhin, ex-governor of Russia, and whose mother is a Russian princess, has mysteriously disappeared in London, and all the resources of the Russian embassy and Scotland yard are being employed to trace her.

Miss Barbara, who is 18 years old, was visiting London with her younger sister in charge of an English governess, Miss Russell. The trio went to the Aldwych theater October 24, and on coming out Barbara became separated in the crowd from her companions and has not since been seen, although the case was immediately reported to the police, and the foreign office, acting at the urgent request of the Russian government, ordered that no efforts be spared in the search for the missing girl.

Since Miss Lapoukhin disappeared the government has received a note in a handwriting which she recognizes as Barbara's, saying that she had been kidnapped outside the theater and was now a prisoner in the cellar of a house in the northwest part of London, the address of which she was unable to ascertain. The girl added that she was wounded and suffering so severely that she intended to poison herself.
